The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s much-loved and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper-time. It is Friday, and Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and spent most of the day with Ben Rogers, who is Tom’s friend and has a reputation for being a smart and aggressive lad. Tom’s Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom is half-formed. Tom has sworn the shock himself to disguise his conduct and eventually chose the news from the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his disheveled clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of note. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labors.

Tom comes home at supper-time. His clothes are dirty and he is black with soot. Tom tells the family about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly reflects that Tom’s adventures, while they made him feel happy, were not suitable for a boy of his age. Tom’s half-brother, Huckleberry Finn, is also present, and he tells everyone about his adventures.

Tom and the new arrival eat supper together. Tom is a bit uncomfortable with Huckleberry’s presence, but Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house into the night air, where he whistles. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Pap Tom, who tells Tom that he is a drunkard and eventually loses the race for the all-way house.
