The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered in jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom crosses home at supper. He has wanted to see his aunt about his adventures. Tom goes out of the house into the kitchen to play with the fire. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets a new friend who brings him a gift. Tom and the new arrival chatted for a while and eventually chased the newcomer all the way home.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. He passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing. As a “white alley,” a kind of scramble, he almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.
