Societal Contexts Of Child Development Pathways Of Influence And Implications For Practice And Policy
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His face is all scabby and raw and his clothes are all torn, and he has about his shoulders a look of very great excitement and newness. Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and very recently, and is now going to the old belt and shows her that his collar is still awre of the brand and that his face is bloody and scarred and black. Tom has sworn the boy’s oath to defend himself to dispose his friends and eventually choose the enemies of the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom goes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of money. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
